Some GBL Tips for you this summer:

1. Proper use of GBL Subscription databases during your internships
   Goizueta Business Library (GBL) vendors license their databases at rates that reflect a deep discount compared to what a commercial enterprise would pay. As part of these agreements, GBL agrees that the Goizueta Business School (GBS) will use the content and data strictly for academic or research purposes, for career/interview related research, and personal use.

   You are strictly forbidden from using the Goizueta Business Library’s or any other Emory electronic resources for any work related to current employers or internships or providing access to anyone at these organizations. For more information see: http://business.library.emory.edu/research-learning/resource-use/use-licensed-databases.html

2. Getting help from Business Librarians during your internships
   - Contact the Business Librarians at gbsaskalibrarian@emory.edu for help with your research this summer.
   - If it’s for an internship project we can help you locate information not using our subscription databases.
   - For example by structuring search strategies in Google to find information, guiding you to relevant trade associations or government organizations to speak with and other useful free resources on the web.

3. Summer Research Guidance MBA Webchats
   - Sponsored by the Business Library, the Student Council and the MBA Program Office.
   - Ann Cullen will hold several web chats to provide guidance on any research questions you might have during your summer internships.
   - First one is at 12noon EST and 7pm EST on Mon. 6/22.
   - Be on the lookout for more details soon!
