

Registering for WSJ.com Access

All current Emory students, faculty and staff have online access to the Wall Street Journal and the app. You must first set up a Wall Street Journal online account.

Step 1: Go to <https://partner.wsj.com/partner/emoryuniversity>

Step 2: Sign in to the Emory's Single Sign-On web page with your Emory University email and password

Step 3: The first time you sign on you will be taken to a separate Wall Street Journal (WSJ) sign-in web page.

- a. Account Type—select your status: Student, Staff, or Professor
- b. Email Address—It is suggested you use a different email address than your Emory one.
- c. Password—You have to enter a password for the Wall Street Journal account you are setting up.

(Do NOT enter your Emory University password at this step since this is NOT an Emory account, but rather a WSJ account)

Step 4: Download the app for your mobile devices; you can be logged into multiple devices at the same time.

Step 5: After the first time signing on, you will be able to sign in directly through wsj.com

For Students: You will only need to authenticate once through Emory. You will continue to have access for three months post-graduation. At that time you will be eligible for a special offer to maintain your own digital WSJ subscription.

For Faculty and Staff: You will need to refresh your access by re-authenticating once a year through Emory. You will receive a notice via your email.

For Existing Subscribers: WSJ does not allow 2 simultaneous subscriptions for the same user. You can cancel your existing subscription and then go through the activation process via Emory. Call Customer Service to cancel at 1-800-JOURNAL (1-800-568-7625) and ask for the Education team.
